BIOGRAPHY

Erika Gashi, BSc, graduated from Polis University with a degree in Art and Design. She currently works as a graphic designer in the marketing office at Barleti University, where she is involved in creating visual materials and marketing campaigns for the university. She also assists in the design of applied projects at the university, contributing to the development and realization of creative ideas for various projects.

In addition to her work as a designer, Erika is also a lab assistant in the Department of Creative Industries, where she assists in teaching software programs for Graphic Design. She provides support to students in using the Adobe suite (Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign, etc.), helping them develop both practical and theoretical skills in creating visual projects.
