BIOGRAPHY

Iris Nela is an architect and urban designer, Academic Coordinator at the Faculty of Creative Industries and Assistant Lecturer at Barleti University. She has international experience as a project manager in Interreg South Adriatic and Adrion programs. In collaboration with the Municipality of Tirana, she proposed improved scenarios for creating livable pedestrian zones—an initiative recognized as one of the most innovative projects developed during Tirana-European Youth Capital 2022. She has collaborated with the Bauhaus Foundation and SCI-ARC in both solo and group research and exhibitions, and has contributed to artistic projects such as NEPOTIK 2 and SABANUM. She leads the design studio “I.2.A”, an experimental practice exploring the boundaries between architecture and its representation.
